"My Field of Dreams" By Michelle Sarasin

Into my field of dreams I shall travel, The beauty of the journey about to unravel, With no map to guide me and no hand to hold, I embark on the path my dreams to unfold.

I shall journey across the highest mountains, Sail softly on life's ever-flowing ocean, As great danger appears as a traveling writer I will stand fearless, 'Cause my dreams are bigger than fear, stronger than doubt, larger than life.

Like a bald eagle I will lead with bravery, Courage is my strongest virtue, Inspiration emanates from the world around me, Trusting my faith to guide my fearless spirit.

I may be famous and possibly turn up fortune,
I may win the Nobel Peace Prize, then one day retire into the sunny skies,
But wherever I go, whatever I do,
My dreams will grow into life so true.

Into my field of dreams I travel, The beauty of the journey 'bout to unravel, Many challenges to defeat, my faith runs deep, My field of dreams is my life's legacy to leave.
