THE PLAN ROOM POST

From Plan Room Manager, John Grandetti

Weather Related Closings: Now that we are into March, I am cautiously optimistic that we will no longer encounter crippling ice storms or major winter storms. We felt that that we should review our closing policy with the membership, and as always, if you have questions, please feel free to call or email the office.

Under a level 3 snow emergency, the office will be closed. If the roads are closed, we do not expect our employees to try to come into work. Under a level 2 snow emergency, staffing the office is up to the director and plan room manager. During the past ice storm, the office had no power for 36 hours. Under those conditions, the office cannot operate. When we lose power, it also takes someone coming out to service our HVAC unit to get the heat working properly, and do not expect our employees to work in an office with no heat.

If the weather does turn for the worse, please call the office prior to coming to the planroom. Thank you for your understanding and please call with any questions.

Last Chance OSHA, Other Classes We will be having our last OSHA classes until the fall from March 22-31st. This will be for the 10 and 30 hour courses, if you have any questions, please contact Rachel.

A new seminar schedule for the website will also be posted for April-June of this year. If you want to learn how to better utilize the reports, or want to see how the online reports could benefit your business, please visit www.bxdayton.com and follow the links to enroll.

THE ABC'S OF SAFETY

By
Gary W. Hanson, President of

AMERICAN SAFETY & HEALTH
MANAGEMENT CONSULTANTS, INC.

When we start school one of the first things we are taught is our ABC's. They are the building blocks of our ability to read. Without learning our ABC's we are at an extreme disadvantage in life. The ABC's are so fundamental to learning that often when faced with learning new tasks, we are told it is as simple as ABC.

The same adage goes for safety. If you want to have a truly effective Safety Program you must know the ABC's of Safety. These are:

- Awareness
- Attitude
- Belief
- Behavior
- Commitment
- Consistency

Each of the above are important elements and must be understood.

Nothing gets invented, nothing gets developed and nothing gets improved unless someone first becomes Aware that something can, should and needs to be done. If a company is not aware that safety is an important management element, all too often little or no effort will be put into the Safety Program. Ask yourself this question, of the ten most important critical management elements necessary for the success of your company, where does safety rank? I often ask that question in the seminars. I do, unfortunately, all too often hear that safety didn't even make the top ten. Other times it is on the bottom part of the list. In these companies it is clear that they are not aware of the importance of safety. Those companies that are aware have safety near the top of the list.

The next element is Attitude. It is not simply enough to be aware that safety is important, a company must want to have a good Safety Program. I call this the want to attitude. In order for a company to want a good Safety Program they need to understand how a good Safety Program protects the most vital assets and directly contributes to the company's overall success, growth and profitability. The real value is in safety and is worth the effort.

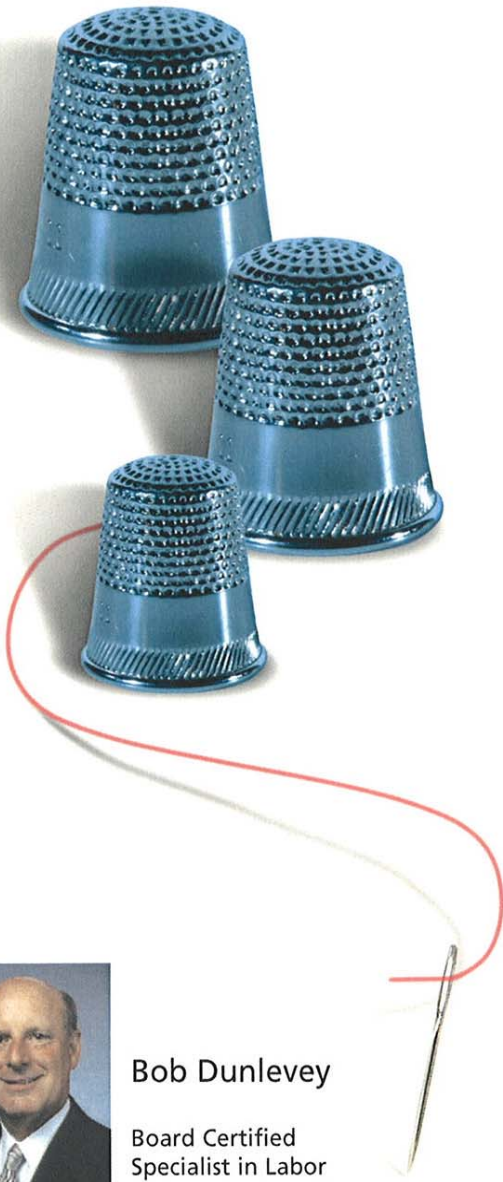

Companies need to Believe in the importance of safety and their Safety Program. If not, the program will never be as effective as it should be. If it is perceived as an interference to production or sales by management many companies will not support safety wholeheartedly. The importance of safety has to be communicated on a regular basis and all levels of management held accountable for the company's safety effort.

Often when I talk to new companies about safety, their understanding relates to the various

OSHA Standards. Yet safety is not a Technical Program, it is a Behavioral Program. In order for safety to truly be effective, it has to be totally engrained in the day to day work behavior of every employee. Every time an employee makes a decision affecting his/her safety, the safe right way should be the only decision they make. This will only happen if employees believe in your Safety Program and its importance.

Companies must be Committed to the Safety Program. It must start at the top, all levels must understand the commitment, sufficient resources, manpower and follow-up must be allocated as necessary. This commitment has to be so clear that there is never any doubt about it and what is expected.

Total Management Commitment is the most important element of any Safety Program. Without it, no Safety Program will be successful.

The last of the ABC's is Consistency. There must be Consistency with Intensity. All too often companies go on what I call a safety diet. Someone recognizes that the Safety Program needs to be improved or upgraded. A strong effort is made to turn the program around and for awhile the efforts are successful. Unfortunately, all too often after a while that effort wanes and the success initially gained slips away. That is why consistency is required. Safety is not a project or program, but an ongoing never ending process. It has to be managed that way.

Remember the ABC's of Safety, they will make all the difference.

If you have any safety questions or need any assistance with your program, please call American Safety & Health Management Consultants, Inc., at 1-800-356-1274.

The project received a total of 56 out of 69 points encompassing each category of LEED NC 2.2 and earned more points than any other project in the State of Ohio under the LEED NC rating system! It also meets the AIA 2030 Challenge for energy efficiency.

Designed in a BIM environment, the 12,200 square foot facility serves as the flagship building for Hocking College's growing Advanced Energy, Fuel Cell, and Vehicular Hybrid programs. The facility houses a variety of curriculum spaces for sustainable technologies and is designed to engage students in a hands-on learning process. The building's mechanical and electrical systems are visible and function as learning tools for students.

Some of the building's characteristics that contributed to LEED certification include:

- A 21.2 kW photovoltaic array provides 15% of the building's total electrical needs
- A 2.4 kW wind generator supplements the photovoltaic array

- A solar thermal hot water system provides hot water for the building
- Geothermal ground source heat pumps provide heating & cooling for the building while using 30% less energy than conventional HVAC equipment
- A 4,000 s.f. green roof planted with native vegetation reduces stormwater runoff
- Operable windows provide natural ventilation during good weather
- Significant use of construction materials with recycled and regionally-manufactured content
- Bioswales and wetland retention ponds to keep storm runoff on-site
- Site planted with native Ohio prairie plants
- Uses less than half the energy of a conventional building of the same size and use
- Delivered for the same cost as a conventional building of the same size and use
- Alternative energy vehicles can be fueled using the facility's compressed natural gas refueling station and electric vehicle plug-in refueling stations

NECA's national and 119 local chapters advance the industry through advocacy, education, research, and standards development.

Quebe entered the electrical industry with a national contractor based in Houston, Texas, following his four-year term of service in the U.S. Marine Corps. Quebe is a licensed contractor in over 30 states. He is a Fellow in The Academy of Electrical Contracting.

His civic involvement includes serving on the Executive Board of the Miami Valley Council Boy Scouts of America and the Legislative and Regulatory Affairs Committee for the Dayton Chamber of Commerce.

DRUG FREE SAFETY PROGRAM TRAINING CLASSES

BX Dayton and the Subcontractors Association of Western Ohio are pleased to announce their upcoming Drug Free Safety Program Training Classes.

The Ohio Bureau of Workers Compensation Drug Free Safety Program requires that your Employees receive 1 hour of Employee Training and that your Supervisors receive an additional 1 hour of Supervisor training each year the program is in effect.

Your Employees and Supervisors have probably sat through the training several years in a row and have complained to you that they have heard the same old thing over and over. This session is going to try to solve that problem. We have a new speaker that will be presenting portions of both the Supervisor and Employee Training Program.

SAWO/BX Dayton Drug and Alcohol Free Workplace Instructor, Rachel Pinkus, will be reviewing the basic policy information required. Bil Farrar, a Clinical Psychologist, will be talking about the impact of Drug and Alcohol Abuse on fellow workers, families, and the individual. Through lecture and real case scenarios, he will also explain his role in helping people find resources that will improve their lives such as job training programs, counseling services, and drug and alcohol cessation programs. He will also open up your employees eyes to the relationship between alcohol/drug abuse and the need for assistance.

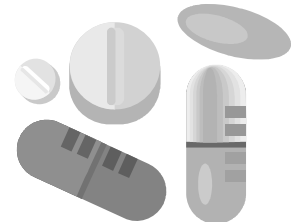

As you can see, this session is designed to give you a quality presentation and an opportunity for you, your Employees, and your Supervisors to ask questions of a professional in this specialized area.

The session will be based around the BWC Drug Free Safety Program standard policy. We recommend that your employees come to this session with a copy of your specific policy in hand, so that they have the opportunities to ask question on items that might be unique to your policy.

One of the primary goals SAWO and BX Dayton is to strive to bring the construction industry quality educational program.

The course has been scheduled as follows:

Friday, April 15, 2011
