

QUALIFIED CRANE SIGNALER TRAINING COURSE

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) is now requiring the training and certification of all persons who are in the position of signaling Cranes and Derricks in Construction. These standards are in full effect. Below are the qualification requirements which will be covered in the Signal Person Qualification Training.

When is a signal person required? A signal person is required when:

- The point of operation is not in full view of the operator
- The operator's view is obstructed in the direction the equipment is traveling
- Either the operator or the person handling the load determines that a signal person is needed because of site-specific safety concerns.

What does a signal person need to know? The signal person is considered qualified if he or she:

- Knows and understands the type of signals used at the worksite
- Is competent in using these signals
- Understands the operations and limitations of the equipment, including the crane dynamics involved in swinging, raising, lowering and stopping loads and in boom deflection from hoisting loads
- Knows and understands the relevant signal person qualification requirements specified in subpart CC (1926.1419-1926.1422; 1926.1428)
- Passes an oral or written test and a practical test.

One of the primary goals of BX Dayton and SAWO is to strive to bring the construction industry quality educational program.
