If you are an alumni of LeadingAge Ohio or the national Leadership Academy this is your invitation to join us for a four-hour session on "Creating a Culture of Engagement."

It is necessary for executives and supervisors to successfully engage themselves, their teams and their communities so that they can prepare the organization for change. Unless you engage the entire organization, change will not really be embraced.

Program Objectives:

- Discover concepts and leadership practices around creating a culture of engagement in which the majority of employees actively embrace and advance change for successful vision achievement.
- Become familiar with a framework for measuring employee engagement as well as "best practice" strategies for steadily increasing engagement over time

Presented by:
Michele Holleran
