

American College of Surgeons

Chapter Member Benefits

MEDICAL STUDENT MEMBERSHIP

- Membership is filled with opportunities to learn more about the surgical profession, including at the chapter annual meeting.
- Not only are you provided with an opportunity to learn, you are provided with several opportunities to network through the annual meeting, listserv, and other chapter events that are posted on the chapter website.
- Your voice is important and through the chapter activities your voice can be heard with chapter representation at legislative, regulatory and other administrative meetings.
- As a Medical Student member, you have access to information in various chapter online and other newsletters, website, and emails.
- Also as a Medical Student member, you can author articles and have an opportunity to publish on the website, newsletter, and in various e-news.
- With the focus of collaboration by the chapter, you can benefit from social interaction with other affiliates, related organizations, fellows, etc.
- The chapter collaborative efforts also permit you to receive specialized training in the areas being focused on by the Commission on Cancer, Committee on Trauma, and Women in Surgery, to name a few...
- Probably most importantly, your Medical Student membership provides you access to future education and residency opportunities.