

Andrew Deye, Vice President, Strategy

deye@jobsohio.com

- Andrew Deye serves as Vice President of Strategy at JobsOhio. In this role, Andrew leads strategy, global business development and research functions at JobsOhio, the state's private economic development corporation. Since its creation, JobsOhio and its partners have successfully served over 2,500 companies including over 450 new-to-Ohio investments.
- Previously, Andrew worked in investment banking for 8 years most recently as a Vice President at Greenhill & Co. During that time, Andrew provided financial advice to governments, corporations and infrastructure investors on a broad range of transactions (including public-private partnerships, M&A, restructurings and financings) totaling over $40 billion.
- At Greenhill, and previously at Morgan Stanley, Andrew developed expertise in public-private partnership ("P3") transactions and has published various articles on the P3 industry including, "US Infrastructure Public-Private Partnerships: Ready for Take-Off?" (The World Bank, September 2015).
- A Cincinnati native, Andrew holds a BS in business administration from Georgetown University and a master's degree from Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

