

Brian Bernstein, Founder and Partner of REALM, brings a wealth of knowledge to the development of complex sites. Passionate about urban design, he has worked with both private developers and institutional entities, leading clients to maximize their investment while creating an enriching public realm. Leading multidisciplinary teams, Brian has established an expertise in setting bold visions for clients where his work is driven by the belief that public space can do more to shape our experiences and bring greater value to owners. Brian's work includes mixed-used commercial, institutional, hospitality and resort design, and geographically spans the US, Mexico, Russia, and India. Brian has engaged in speaking events at nearby colleges and universities, including CCAD and Kent State University, and has been published by World Landscape Architecture for his work on the nuCLEus mixed-use development in Cleveland, Ohio.
