

NCDA Monthly Report June 2022

Last Updated: July 05, 2022

On The Hill

June was a busy month on the Hill, with Congress rushing to push through as much legislation as possible ahead of the August recess and subsequent midterm election campaign season. The FY23 appropriations cycle is in full swing, with the House a few steps ahead of the Senate in releasing committee text and report language for the budget. In addition, Congress is working to strike a deal on several key priorities, including the Bipartisan Innovation Act and federal privacy legislation.

Much of the bandwidth on the Hill this month was also taken up by responding to current events such as the recent Supreme Court decision on Roe v. Wade. In the wake of recent mass shootings, Congress negotiated and passed landmark bipartisan gun safety legislation which also included significant funding for school and community mental health programs. The Administration has been focused on current events as well, with the Fed raising interest rates in an attempt to curb inflation.

Creating Opportunities to Thrive and Advance Act

NCDA endorsed a bill from Rep. GT Thompson last month, and that bill was introduced in June alongside Rep. Derek Kilmer. Press for the bill included a quote from NCDA President Sharon Givens. The bill would allow funds for Title II of WIOA to provide career guidance to individuals and to create public outreach through Public Service Announcements, social media campaigns, job fairs, etc. to spread the word on these workforce development programs. Title II already allows organizations such as trade associations to receive funds from states to implement eligible programming, as long as they can "prove effectiveness" in their application.

More broadly, WIOA negotiations are ongoing behind the scenes, but concrete movement or passage appears to be delayed until next session. We are in discussions with NCDA and Congressional stakeholders on a strategy to address key concerns and priorities such as credentialing as the committee works on a more reform-oriented package.

Bipartisan Innovation Act

The Bipartisan Innovation Act that aims to strengthen the United States' competitiveness on a global stage, particularly related to China, continues to be negotiated, but at a slow pace. Despite still being under the purview of the joint House and Senate conference committee, Congressional leaders in both chambers have begun to take a more hands-on approach to the package. Senators Chuck Schumer (D-NY) and Mitch McConnell (R-KY), along with Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi (D-CA) and Republican Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-CA), have been holding meeting sessions to pare back the package in an attempt to pass it prior to the August recess.

A number of provisions have already been publicly acknowledged to have been dropped from the broad package, including provisions related to access to the banking system by the domestic cannabis industry and broad climate change provisions that were contained in the House's version of the bill. The leaders have also been negotiating rules related to the prevention of federal funds going to companies that do business with or have subsidiaries operating in China.

The innovation bill does not seem to be in danger of failing to garner enough support to eventually end up on the President's desk for signature into law. However, it is proceeding at a slow pace. The goal of finishing the bill prior to the August congressional recess seems optimistic given there are just 12 legislative days for each chamber during July.

NCDA Conference

The Lobbyit team had a presence at NCDA's annual conference in Anaheim at the end of June. In addition to leading a Government Affairs Committee meeting and a formal Government Relations session, where we updated members on what is happening on the Hill, our team appreciated the opportunity to engage with NCDA leadership at events such as the Brain Trust brunch event to share our recent successes and goals for the coming year. We were able to hear directly from members about what challenges they're facing on the ground related to WIOA and other programs, giving us additional talking points in our conversations with Congress. The conference also solidified our goal of doing an in-person Hill Day event in DC early next year.

Employer-Directed Skills Act This bill allows for an employer to sponsor skills development programs with partial federal reimbursement under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA). These new skills development programs are exempt from the program application and participant assessment requirements that typically apply to WIOA employment and training activities. However, these skills development programs must be conducted according to an employer-sponsored skills development agreement that includes, among other required provisions, a commitment by the employer to employ an individual upon successful completion of the program. The bill also requires the federal share of these skills development programs and the federal share of existing on-the-job training programs to be paid by reimbursement from employer-directed skills accounts that must be established by local one-stop operators.
