

Future Career

Who knows what the future may hold
For you are so young and the world is old
For the world is so big and the you are so small
And as you grow old and grow tall
You think about what you will be when your older
For what ever you be, you'll be your own Soldier
Whether a teacher, a artist, a businessman or dog walker
Whether you want to play football, basketball, or soccer
You'll always wonder about the future of yourself
As we grow we realize things about ourselves
Our likes, our dislikes, our loves and our hates
For one day our career choice will be an open gate
When you will choose what you will do in your life
For it will be your career, the choice of your life
And once its chosen, you will have found your career
Your way of helping the world, your own cheer
For, your time will come, big and bold
For the future holds secrets one day to be told
