- Craig Douglas, Vice President of Payer and Member Relations – The VGM Group and Laura Williard, Vice President of Payer Relations – American Association for Homecare

There is a lot of discussion around, and attention being given to, the concept of alternative payment models and value-based care. Up to this point, the majority of those “new” payment models have focused on the physician and hospital services aspect of healthcare. Now, however, there are more payers focusing on applying those models to more aspects of healthcare, including DME products and services. During this session we will explore answers to questions like “What do these models look like for DME providers?” and “What tools, programs, or software exist to help providers better prepare for and implement these types of payment models?” Please join Laura Williard and Craig Douglas for a deeper dive into what this transition may look like for suppliers and show you real life examples of potential solutions for the future.

The final session of the conference looks to the future of value-based care and the HME providers' role in its evolution with the vision and experience of this power panel. Value-based care means different things to different people and organizations. HME providers must think strategically about their stake in the overall healthcare picture and leverage their expertise and connection to patients at home to maximize value to consumers and payers. We'll look at payer vertical integration occurring in the market today, emerging industry collaborations, referral, employee and patient engagement and learn how data and outcomes contribute to increased customer lifetime value and overall business success. This forward-thinking session will pull it all together sending you home with invaluable insight and achievable goals.
