

Partnership for Prescription Assistance Celebrates 10th Anniversary and New Website

This week the Partnership for Prescription Assistance (PPA) celebrates its 10th anniversary of helping connect uninsured or underinsured Americans to programs that provide prescription medicines for free or nearly free. Since its launch in 2005, PPA has connected nearly 9.5 million Americans to public and private assistance programs.

In order to provide patients and caregivers with faster, easier access to information for more than 475 public and private patient assistance programs, PPA recently launched a redesigned website.

The modernized website has information on how uninsured patients can access health care coverage along with interactive content on how to improve health for patients of all ages. The new website also includes information on more than 100,000 free health care clinics throughout the United States.

New PPA Search Wizard

The screenshot shows the PPA website's home page. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the PPA logo, the text "Partnership for Prescription Assistance", and links for "GET PRESCRIPTION HELP", "FIND CLINICS", and a "MENU" dropdown. The main heading is "Welcome to the PPA!". Below this, a paragraph explains that the PPA helps qualifying patients without prescription drug coverage get the medicines they need through the program that is right for them – free of charge. It emphasizes that many patients will get their medications at no cost or at discounted prices. To the right of this paragraph is a green button labeled "Get step-by-step instructions". Below the paragraph is a section titled "HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:" which lists four steps: 1) Tell us what medicines you take (Select your medicines from the list), 2) Tell us about yourself (Provide basic information about yourself and the type of drug coverage (if any) you currently have), 3) Get your results (See which prescription assistance programs you may be eligible for and select the ones you would like to apply to), and 4) Complete the application process (Print, complete and mail your applications to each program you are applying to). At the bottom of the page is a large green button labeled "Get Started!".
