

Bible Study Leader: Cory Driver

Cory Driver is the Director of the Transformational Leadership Academy in the Indiana-Kentucky Synod. He helps to design and promote lay, TEEM and continuing education opportunities to strengthen and delight those who serve the church in positions of leadership. Driver earned a Ph.D. in Religion (Jewish Religious Cultures) from Emory University (2017); a MA in Near Eastern Languages and Cultures (Arabic and Hebrew) from the Ohio State University (2011); and a BS in Economics from Purdue University (2005). Driver's research and teaching focus on the intersections of religious practice, ethnicity and gender in both his ethnographic work as well as his approach to scripture. Cory and his wife, Sarah, recently moved back to the States from Morocco with their two little boys, who are enjoying living in the same continent as their grandparents, but confused as to why they do not hear as much Arabic as they used to. Cory is a rostered minister of Word and Service in the ELCA.
